

The services at Mountain Meadows on September the 10th and 11th also demonstrate the value of group cooperation in honoring the dead, promoting forgiveness, and achieving reconciliation. If anyone has information, photos, comments, or other items that promote these ideas, please send them to a member of the Board for consideration for future newsletters. May this spirit of collaboration continue in the future.

Our Association is committed to achieving the ideals and goals expressed in these quilt blocks. With this concept in mind, we are happy to announce that the MMA Directors have appointed Tom Lamb as a new member of the Board. Because of his background, Tom will make a significant contribution. He has a degree from BYU in Advertising and Public Relations. After working in California for many years, he returned to his family roots in Southern Utah. During her childhood, his mother, Lutie Lytle Lamb, lived on the Lytle family ranch where many members of the Arkansas wagon train died. Even though Tom is a general contractor, he is personally dedicated to protecting the sacred space in this valley from development and to preserving it as a place of honor for the dead.
